Opportunity to Serve Community Arrives July 22

Civic Center Bond Issue May be Last Chance for All of Us to Get What Carmel Needs Now and in the Future

It is really a very serious matter, and it is hoped that all Carmel voters will realize it. We may not have such an opportunity again to assure at small cost what this community needs. The fact should sink home that to vote against the bond issue on July 22 will mean more expense later on for every property owner. To vote for it will get us what we need now and insure the Civic Center for the future.

The site chosen is the Elizabeth McClung White property between Mission and Junipero. After the Business Association poll regarding Devendorf Plaza, the Council eliminated that site as a possibility, and it will not be considered again. Votes will be cast for the raising of $27,000 to purchase the White site and to build police headquarters and jail there. The City Hall and Social Service Building will be built later on.

The place to vote on Tuesday

Citizens Naval Militia To Join State Guard Sunday

The Citizens Naval Militia of Monterey, composed of those Peninsulaites who have a yen for the salt water and who privately organized a home defense group of their own three months ago, will make a bit of history Sunday afternoon at Colton Hall when they join the California State Guard and become what is considered the first naval unit of any state guard organization in the United States. Adjutant General J. O. Donovan is expected to personally induct the militia at the ceremony and it is hoped that Governor Culbert Olson will be able to be present.

This newly accepted naval unit of the state guard is made up of 126 men, most of whom have had

Mrs. Marie Gordon Wins Prize in USO Fund Raising Campaign

Among the five lucky persons winning $50 prizes in the USO fund raising campaign on the peninsula, which ended Tuesday night with a drawing at the State Theater in Monterey, was Mrs. Marie Gordon of Carmel. Others were: Wilfred Eyre, Pebble Beach; Homer J. Hoyt and L. G. Harris, Monterey; Gail Burck, Pasadena.

First prize of $250 was won by E. M. Noble, 2355 Polk street, San Francisco.

Frank Work, chairman of the campaign committee, reports that $3400 was collected in the drive, which does not fill the $4000 quota for the peninsula, but it is hoped that figure may be reached shortly by donations.

Pots to the Post Office

Aluminum is vitally needed in our Defense program. Old pots and pans of this material can be used for airplane parts. The government will appreciate your contributing many of such articles as you can possibly spare, putting them in a bin at our post office next week.

A drive to collect aluminum from families on the peninsula will commence Monday under the leadership of Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston, chairman of the Peninsula Women's Volunteer Corps, working in conjunction with Col. Harold L. Mack's Civil Defense Plan.

Art Gallery Drawing a Great Success

At least 400 people were at the Art Gallery Tuesday evening, each one eagerly anticipating the joy of winning a favorite painting. The doorway was crowded, the hall and the two galleries were packed, making it necessary for some patrons and patronesses to await the drawing in the garden-patio.

The Carmel Art Association had sold all of their 500 special membership tickets at $5 each, realizing $2600, for improvements on the gallery. One hundred artist members had donated paintings, and a ticket holder was entitled to a 5 to 1 chance of winning one of them.

Paul Dougherty, president of the Association, presided over the drawing, and Byington Ford was master of ceremonies, assisted by Paul Whitman, vice-president. Others officiating were: Earl Prince, Burton Boundey, Myron Oliver, Frank Myers and Ferdinand Burgdorff. On the house committee were Mrs. Margaret Ingalls, Mrs. Caroline Pickett and

SOLI DEO GLORIA

Carmel welcomes the occasion of its Seventh Annual Bach Festival and feels justifiable pride in an endeavor that has not only a wealth of tradition behind it but has attained, through consistently excellent performances, a national significance in the realm of music.

Carmel welcomes the performers that give so generously of their talents, and the hundrds of pilgrims that make our village their musical Mecca because the performance of Bach's immortal works gives sustenance to their souls and fresh hope to their sorely tried hearts.

We do not forget that all the music is not exclusively Bach's own and we welcome the addition of Mozart, who in many minds ranks with the celebrated contrapuntist: and the English masters, including Purcell, Handel and Byrd. It is an interesting circumstance that England's greatest musical genius, Henry Purcell, was a contemporary of Bach, and it is no less noteworthy that the most versatile and flamboyant composer of that period, (outside of Bach himself, who was equally versatile but hardly flamboyant) was born just a few miles from Bach's birthplace, in the exact same year. He became an English subject by choice and his name, of course, is George Frederick Handel.

We cannot forget our indebtedness to Gastone Usigli who, as Conductor of the Festival for the past four seasons, has given us the benefit of his impeccable musicianship and last but by no means least, we congratulate the team of Denny-Watrous whose untiring efforts have made the Festival possible.

A fascinating young lady from Cuba is LINDA PRECIOSA Schuster, who is now making her home in Carmel with her mistress, Maria Schuster. LINDA PRECIOSA is a very versatile and talented person; she not only dances the rhumba, but is an expert equestrienne and often rides with her mistress, sitting on the front of the saddle. She is also the proud and devoted mother of twins, a boy and a girl. Her husband, a dark and handsome Cocker, is a traveling man and is away most of the time. LINDA amuses herself by going off on little tours of exploration about the village. She likes Carmel very much because it has such a cosmopolitan air and has such a nice beach for the twins to play on.

LINDA PRECIOSA has two very definite dislikes, however; one is the gardener because he gets everything all wet, and the other is the cleaning woman because she has the terrifying monster called Vacuum Cleaner who makes such frightening noises. LINDA bites the gardener at frequent intervals, but she is afraid to bite the cleaning woman for fear that her monster will retaliate.

LINDA PRECIOSA is indeed a delightful addition to the Carmel canine set.

REX Watson was seen on the corner the other day in animated conversation with a charming pair of Titian-haired tourists. The young ladies were asking him for his pawograph because they thought he was the dog who played the transformed "Sabu" in "The Thief of Bagdad." REX was modestly telling them that he wasn't really a movie star, but that his master, Eugene Watson, was one of Carmel's leading thespians. The girls seemed very much impressed with REX's charms, even though he wasn't a cinema satellite.

SHADOW Owen is the happiest Cocker in town these days because his master and mistress, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Owen, are home again after a gad-about trip around the country. He just wiggles with joy, in the inimitable Cocker fashion, when they speak to him.

SHADOW was such a good boy while they were away that his friends were worried about him. He didn't fight, or chase cats, or run away, or even chew up the neighbor's newspaper. He just stayed home and tended to the garden, like a perfect little gentleman.

DINKY COOKE is the pride and joy of his young master, Bobby Cooke. He is a little black and white fox terrier who is not very handsome and who can't do tricks, but Bobby wouldn't trade him for any dog in Carmel, or anywhere else, for that matter. DINKY is Bobby's inseparable companion, he even sleeps on his bed. When DINKY decides to go out on midnight prowls, he jumps out of the bedroom window, but when he returns home, he goes to the door and barks until Bobby gets out of bed and lets him in, but Bobby doesn't mind. He says that DINKY would do as much for him. And DINKY would, to, because he thinks that Bobby is the swellest master in the world. They are a great pair.

List to the sad experience that befell that handsome gentleman, MAESTRO Brookshier!—on page 5, column one.

Shakespeare Festival Rehearsals at Forest Theater

Rehearsals for the Shakespeare Festival to be held Aug. 1, 2, 3 and 8, 9, 10, have been going merrily along this week in the Forest Theater, where every evening from 8 to 10 the group of players gathers for Hamlet and The Merry Wives of Windsor. The coming week a more intensive schedule will be adopted, with evening rehearsals of Hamlet alternating with evening rehearsals of The Merry Wives, while scenes of two or three players will rehearse together in the afternoons.

Several of the shorter roles are still open, and anyone who would enjoy being in the Festival will be welcome at the Theater any evening. Previous experience is not essential, as Shakespeare out-of-doors is not difficult for anyone who can give time to rehearsal.

OUR MAYOR GETS SIGNIFICANT LETTER

City of Monterey,
July 14, 1941.

Honorable Keith Evans,
Mayor Carmel-by-the-Sea,
Carmel, California.
Dear Mayor Evans:

The City of Monterey does not wish to be arbitrary, but as you know, our jail situation is extremely bad. The building dates back to 1854. Even were it not overcrowded, it would do us no credit; but it is congested beyond all reasonable limits. Our arrests, like yours, have increased greatly with the coming of camp followers of Fort Ord.

It will be no full solution of our problem if prisoners from Carmel are removed, but it will to some degree relieve our situation until we can build a new jail. We are gratified that you are taking steps to build your own jail. I trust that they may be carried to completion with little delay and that you will find it possible to remove your prisoners from our jail at the earliest possible date.

We shall continue to care for your prisoners until your jail is built; but this is official notice that you must take steps to remove them as soon as it can be done.

I am

Very truly yours,
B. J. PARDEE,
City Manager.

Donna Hodges Carmel Contestant in Salinas Rodeo

This is the first year Carmel has ever been represented in the Salinas Rodeo, and young Miss Donna Hodges, daughter of the Lynn H. Hodges of Hatton Road, is one of the 50 contestants, from which one girl will be chosen to be the Sweetheart Girl of the Rodeo. It is a big week for Donna. Tuesday the girls were taken up to San Francisco, to speak over radio stations KGO and KDON, after which the Rotary Club entertained them at luncheon in the Palace Hotel.

The lucky girl who wins the "Sweetheart" title will receive a $500 scholarship to any University.

Josephine Castle Dies in Pebble Beach Home

Miss Josephine Castle, 23-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred C. Castle, died Tuesday night after a brief illness at her parents' summer home in Pebble Beach.

The Castles are residents of Chicago, where Mr. Castle is president of the Steel Company bearing his name. They came to the Peninsula last summer and bought their home in Pebble Beach. They have only been here a week this summer.

Services for Miss Castle will be held in Chicago. The Dorney Funeral Home here is in charge of arrangements.

Barre Exhibit of Dyed Evening Gowns and Murals at Pine Inn

In the Pine Room of the Pine Inn can be seen this week, and for some weeks to come, an unusual exhibition of Barre hand-dyed evening wraps, quilting, wall murals, palmetto hats and bags. The method is itself unique, and originated from the more primitive Javanese batiks. The objects, however, are not hand-dipped, but dyed in various patterns by hand. Many of the cloth murals are very like the ancient Belgian and French tapesries of an earlier day. Colors are so blended as to resemble the art of ancient craftsmen, yet none are costly.

Those interested in modern examples of a virtually lost art are invited to visit the exhibit, now open mornings and afternoons.

BASIL COGHLAN IN KUSTER PLAY

Basil Cogland has a part in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" because he looks like an actor. Actually he is a business man. He has the Electrolux agency in Carmel but it has been said so often that he looks more like a thespian that it has become a fact. Director Talbot Pearson heard it and gave him a part which he takes to like an old timer in the business.

Pearson is still looking for a colored man and woman to cast in small but effective parts.

Opportunity to Serve Community Comes on July 22

is the Firehouse on Sixth street, between San Carlos and Mission; hours are 9 a. m. to 7 p. m.

Here are the questions and answers to be considered:

DOES THE CITY NEED A JAIL?

The city has no choice; it MUST build a jail. The Monterey jail is disgracefully overcrowded, and Carmel has been asked to remove its prisoners at the earliest possible moment.

If a decent jail is not built through this bond issue, it will have to be built out of current revenues. Since the city's tax rate is $1, the limit allowed cities of its size under State law, the jail will have to be built in one of two ways, if the bond issue fails:

1. An improvised jail might be built out of current tax revenues, by cutting deeply into essential city services. The complaints that would reach the city hall, were this attempted, would raise the roof. There is hardly enough revenue now to cover essential services.

2. The basis of property assessment might be raised from 40 per cent to 50 per cent of real value, bringing it into line with county practice. This would raise enough to build the jail, but IT WOULD BENEFIT NO TAXPAYER, for there is little likelihood that the 40 per cent assessment basis could ever be restored.

The City has got to build a jail. The only question is how it is to be paid for. By far the wisest plan will be to pass the bonds, so that it will be paid for over an 18-year period, during which the jail will serve the community.

DOES THE CITY NEED A CITY HALL SITE?

The City most certainly needs a city hall, and will build it one of these days. It is only good business sense to acquire the property NOW, when a site for the Police Station-Jail must be bought. This will permit development of a real Carmel Civic Center, which otherwise may never be possible, save at great cost.

Buying a cite for the jail, and its construction, will cost $17,000, without inclusion of the Civic Center idea. By spending only $10,0000 more, Carmel will have its City Hall site and Civic Center.

The great expansion of Carmel is taking suitable unimproved sites off the market. The All Saints Church took one, business interests have just taken two more. If we do not act NOW, we may, one of these days, have to buy improved property for a City Hall, at great cost, and the possibility of developing a Civic Center may be gone forever.

WHY NOT BUILD JAIL IN THE CORPORATION YARD?

It could be done, but the City would have to buy a yard site elsewhere, for it possesses no other land to which the title is clear. And if this were done, we would, in all probability, never have a Civic Center. We would face, moreover, the problem of buying a City Hall site at some future date at a cost that would eat up several times over, any saving we might now make, through such a move. The proposal is no solution.

THIS OR THAT SITE IS BETTER FOR A CIVIC CENER

Every site has good and bad points. If we wait until all agree, we shall never have a City Hall or Civic Center. The City Council considered available sites from the standpoint of (a) cost, (b) area, (c) central location, (d) traffic and parking, (e) lie of land. Bearing all these factors in mind, the proposed site offered such advantages that it got the unanimous vote of the Council.

WHAT ABOUT TRAFFIC AND PARKING?

It is almost ideal. Junipero, which borders the site on the East, is to be improved as a main, 100-foot wide thoroughfare, from the city line on the north to the Carmel Mission on the south. Sev-

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"The Lord will command his lovingkindness in the daytime, and in the night his song shall be with me, and my prayer unto the God of my life." These words from Psalms comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, July 20, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Life". Included among the Scriptural selections will be: 'How excellent is thy lovingkindness, O God! therefore the children of men put their trust under the shadow of thy wings. . . For with thee is the fountain of life: in thy light shall we see light" (Ps. 36: 7, 9).)

The following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "When we realize that Life is Spirit, never in nor of matter, this understanding will expand into self-completeness, finding all in God, good, and needing no other consciousness. . . . Because Life is God, Life must be eternal, self-existent. Life is the everlasting I AM, the Being who was and is and shall be, whom nothing can erase" (pp. 264, 289).

Gay Nineties Party at Del Monte July 25

Hotel Del Monte is preparing its Gay Nineties Party for Friday evening, July 25, in the Bali Room.

Frank Andrews, Carmel Valley artist and member of the Carmel Art Association, is doing the decorations that will represent Hotel Del Monte in days of yore, when guests drove up to the front porch in a horse and buggy, and took the 17-Mile Drive in a Tally-ho.

Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous are bringing members of the Troupers of the Gold Coast from the First Theater to put on the entertainment. Bob Bratt will be master of ceremonies. There will be inimitable olio numbers.

Hotel waiters will wear handlebar moustaches and other insignia of the gay nineties. Carvel Craig will dress his orchestra to match. Best of all, everyone may dress as he pleases. The idea is just to relax and have fun!

Letter to Jessie Joan Brown

Dear Jessie Joan:

I am MAESTRO Brookshier, the white collite whom you prophesied would succeed Toscanini on the podium. Alas, my maestronomical prospects are ruined. I have become an outcast, a social pariah. Odium, not podium, is my sad lot. I am separated from my musical Miss, the gifted Jewell Brookshier, partly because she is indisposed, but chiefly because I am indisposable. It was all because of my lack of Nature Study. It was this way. I was on my way to a social event of Carmel's canine cuties. You know how stunning I look in my snow-white coat, and how stunned the gentler sex look when they behold my classical features. Well, on my way through the gloaming, I encountered a feline family, Tom, Tabby and their three offspring. They were unuusal cats—small heads, striped bodies and bushy tails. I was in fine fettle for a lark; I'm just a social playboy, you know. But they were not socially disposed. They bolted under a culvert, and I followed,—in my ermine coat. There's where my Nature Study began, and ended.

I merely hint at the sequel of this limburger limerick. Doubtless Jewell Brookshier will compose a dirge in minor key and solemn tempo to fit the malodorous lines:

As a collie, brought up in the city,
I attacked what I thought was a kitty;
It sure was a cat,—
And a pole one at that;
Now I've had no habitat:
What a pity!

DOGmatically and CATegorically Yours,

MAESTRO Brookshier.

COLLISION—

Clarence A. Steinmetz of Carmel and Amos D. Clinefelter of Pacific Grove were involved in an accident last Saturday night when their cars collided at the Del Monte avenue and Tyler street intersection.

To the Editor

Carmel is in for another chewing gum, postage stamp, cigarette and what have you campaign. Such tactics are getting a little stale; would suggest that the high pressure, bond-minded group get a new "front" who would give us a new slogan. The voters are a little weary of having people who reside outside the Village tell the taxpayer how to "raise money without any cost to the taxpayer."

Carmel needs, and has needed a jail for some time, but not bad enough to pay $12,000 for lots which are listed at $180 each for taxation, while the city has property of its own in just as good or better location.

A city hall and jail could be built on city-owned property with the money wasted on the Forest Theater by an incompetent council. It is an expensive plaything that never has and never will pay cost of production of so-called Shakespearean plays.

The city has a white elephant on its hands.

If the money, over $1000, that has been paid the street crew for work on the Forest Theater project had been used, it would have gone a long way toward making improvements on the streets adjacent to property owners who are strong proponents of the bond issue.

The Forest Theater cost the taxpayers of Carmel approximately $6000, in addition to some $15,000 Federal money, which of course grows on trees and no one has to pay??? And it might be pertinent to ask how much of future bond issues will be used i nthe same way by subsequent councils.

If the council gives $12,000 for a location, there will remain, after all preliminary expenses, architectural, etc., about $12,000, and in all probability they will start a project costing two or three times that amount, as it is the universal custom in Carmel of starting a monstrosity on a shoe string, then put on another chewing gum, stamp and cigarette campaign with the plea that we have only half a city hall, or half a jail.

New Treatment for Arthritis Huge Success

Grove Chiropractor Develops Painless, Drugless Method

This new method of treatment is founded on the scientific changes of tissue coupled to the reaction of toxic waste bound in the cell structure and its subsequent elimination.

Pain is relieved and the cell structure is reorganized and the hard calcium deposit absorbed and eliminated through normal body elimination. The treatment is painless and drugless and great success has been experienced through this new method.

Elderly people as well as those of younger ages respond with equal success. This treatment can only be taken at the offices of H. E. Allyn, D. C., 370 Central Avenue, Pacific Grove. For information or appointment, call Pacific Grove 6882.—(Advt.)

Just a Reminder

It's a song sung loudly and unendlessly by the Humane Society but as long as there're dogs and as long as there're dog owners they'll keep right on singing it — LICENSE YOUR DOG. This plea goes out especially to the new residents of Carmel who perhaps think that Carmel is such a dog mecca that such commonplace things as licenses are completely ignored but the more dogs there are, the more need for keeping them all straight; hence the compulsory licensing of all dogs in the cities and counties is most logical.

All unlicensed dogs are picked up and taken to the Animal Shelter on David avenue in Pacific Grove. Seven very fine dogs recently picked up on the Peninsula are still unclaimed and may be claimed by phoning Monterey 3333.

The right side of George S. Eardley's car was damaged when he collided last Friday on Tenth street with a car driven by Norman Lee Waggoner of Burlingame. No one was injured in the crash.

Off for Drill Out for Fire

Carmel's 23 volunteer firemen were well primed to take care of the alarm which came in right after their regular drill Thursday night, July 10, and it took them only a very few minutes to extinguish the fire at the home of Jack Mello on Lincoln between Third and Fourth streets. A loss of $800 to the service porch and back entrance was the estimated damage. No one was in the house at the time.

ESCAPED PRISONER NABBED

Otis Campbell, 23, former Carmel man serving a year sentence for stealing two automobiles in one day, escaped last Wednesday from the Monterey county prison road camp, only to be picked up by San Diego police on Saturday. Conviction on an escape charge carries a San Quentin penalty.

THE BACH FESTIVAL

Amid the enthusiastic descriptions, loud praises and poetical rhapsodies this year regarding our Seventh Annual Bach Festival, one fact stands out clearly: that great music has a universal appeal. It makes no difference whether a composer is German or Italian, British or American, the expression of his genius is above international differences, above the ambitions of dictators and politicians, the hates and jealousies of the masses. His contribution to mankind is God-given, and as such will be felt and understood by men and women of all nationalities so long as human intelligence and human feeling exist.

Five years ago, on the occasion of our second festival in honor of Johann Sebastian Bach, Miss Myra Palache of Berkeley, a relative of Whitney Palache of Carmel, gave a lecture on the life and music of the great composer. A devoted student of Bach, she explained that to fully appreciate the significance of his work, we must realize the spirit in which it was written.

Dora Hagemeyer was present at this lecture, and we feel that we can add nothing to her words about it then: "Everything Bach wrote was 'In Nomine Jesu,' and it was because of this dedication that he never permitted himself to give anything but the very highest. His whole musical life was keyed up to this pitch, and it is for this reason that the more nearly we approach in listening to the state of consciousness in which the music was written, the more fully will it be revealed to us.

"Before the time of Bach, music was written horizontally, as it were. The lines of melody were interwoven in two dimensions, but with Bach, music became vertical through the introduction of depth. In hearing such music it is necessary to 'listen underneath'; to follow beyond obvious melodies into the great under-patterns of sound. So that Bach was more to his time than simply a great musician. He breathed a new spirit into music and gave it a new dimension. He stood music upright, as it were, and inspired it with an entirely new life.

"By a happy combination of circumstances Carmel is peculiarly well fitted for a Bach Festival. The name Bach means 'brook' and Beethoven said, 'He is not a brook, he is the sea.' So here by the blue waters of the Pacific we have not only that great symbol of the ocean which alone might stand for Bach, but the music of the pines which surrounded him in his boyhood in Thuringia. With a tremendous sense of the infinite he sang the song of creation, of life as eternal and of man as part of that eternity."

THE BOND ISSUE

To the tune of Bach, on the second day of the Festival, there will be an election in Carmel to decide whether or not we're going to have a Civic Center. The Pine Cone urges all Carmel voters to support the issue.

We are completely satisfied that the arguments for raising $27,000 at this time for this purpose are much stronger than any arguments against it. We know how badly Carmel needs a jail and appreciate the advisability of having police headquarters adjacent to or connected with the jail. We are sure that sooner or later Carmel is going to need a city hall, and as a matter of practical convenience it ought to be near police headquarters.

The site proposed is reasonably priced; we've checked the figures which prove it. And it is large enough to accommodate everything desirable in a Civic Center, including a Red Cross Social Service Building.

There isn't any other available site (except the park) which offers so many practical advantages. Now is the time to purchase it.

And now is the time to realize that if we're ever going to have a Civic Center, we've got to make a start. To build the jail and police headquarters in one small locality and trust to luck to get some other place later on for a city hall and Red Cross Social Service Building would be shortsighted. It would be much more expensive in the long run.

The main point is that this thing will be of real benefit to Carmel, now and in the future, and we're confident that if Carmel voters, whether property owners or not, will investigate the issue —consider practical reasons and figures before accepting any emotional argument against it—the answer on July 22nd will be YES.

Today's column is devoted entirely to the work of Langston Hughes.

YOUNG NEGRO GIRL

You are like a warm dark dusk
In the middle of June-time
When the first violets
Have almost forgotten their names
And the deep red roses bloom.

You are like a warm dark dusk
In the middle of June-time
Before the hot nights of summer
Burn white with stars.

REFUGEE

Loneliness terrific beats on my heart,
Bending the bitter broken boughs of pain.
Stunned by the onslaught that tears the sky apart
I stand with unprotected head against the rain.

Loneliness terrific turns to panic and to fear.
I hear my footsteps on the stairs of yesteryear,
Where are you? Oh, where are you?
Once so dear.

ONE

Though I go drunken
To her door,
I'm ever so sure
She'll let me in.

Though I wander and stray
And wound her sore,
She'll open the latch
When I come again.

No matter what
I do or say,
She waits for me
At the end of the day.

SILENCE

I catch the pattern
Of your silence
Before you speak.
I do not need
To hear a word—
For in your silence
Every tone I seek
Is heard.

Dreaming you go.
Weather and rose
Is all you know.

Weather and rose

BILL BASSETT GOES OFF HALF-COCKED

Last week, The Lark's self-described "ubiquitous and ever-vigilant reporter" took a nasty crack at our police department in a lead story which, though admittedly based on rumor, was presented as "hot news from a fearless editor."

His shot this time was aimed at two officers, Les Overhulse and Earl Wermuth, with a calculated appeal to those individuals, local or visiting, who may have received citations from them.

Suggesting that a business group was about to form in Carmel to protest to the Council about the behavior of these officers, Bill said vaguely, "Just what specific complaints are made against the two policemen The Lark couldn't learn, but it did hear references made to an alleged recent rough-treatment of a prisoner, treatment which, it is said, Judge Ray Baugh in Monterey declared to be quite serious and unwarranted." Notice how Bill avoids the responsibility of direct statement.

"The police have a different version of this affair," continues Bill, with an of course, they would have inference. "They say that the alleged victim inflicted injuries on himself and, incidentally, took a piece out of Policeman Overhulse's scalp with a kick. We didn't get details on just how this was accomplished."

Well, why didn't the "ever-vigilant reporter" get some details? The Pine Cone gave them in a page one story on June 27, described the condition of the "victim," the unholy row he caused, the kick that Officer Overhulse received. There were several witnesses, one of them from our office, which is just across the street from police headquarters, and where we, along with a good part of the population of Dolores street could hear the language the "victim" used.

As for Judge Ray Baugh's alleged remark, it was, according to the Judge himself, when we questioned him about it, "simply the cloth and hair of Bill Bassett's imagination." From what the Judge learned of this affair, the kind of treatment the "victim" received from our police was certainly warranted under the circumstances. And as a matter of fact, he was treated with an unusual amount of consideration, all of Bill's "rubber-hose inferences" to the contrary.

Bill couldn't stop there in his "beef" against the two officers. He went on to suggest they were over-zealous in regard to traffic violations. "They are no respecters of persons," he wrote, which makes us wonder if Bill has always been a lily himself while driving that Packard of his.

There is a law in Carmel that nobody should double-park and leave the driver's seat empty. We reported this in The Pine Cone on June 13 at the request of Police Chief Roy Fraties, and at that time Officers Overhulse and Wermuth were given the unpleasant duty of enforcing this law to the best of their ability. During the past month Overhulse has worked from 8 till 4; Wermuth from 4 till midnight, and they have had plenty of other things to do besides giving traffic citations. We've explained a number of times that our police force is under-manned, that we need a regular traffic officer.

Why should these officers be respecters of persons who are actual offenders? Are we going to have a law in Carmel for one person and no law for another? And is there any other town in California where you can double-park and leave your car and not get a ticket, if a policeman sees you?

The point is, Bill's attack on these two officers, which reflects on our police force in general, was decidedly unwarranted and unfair. He counted on the fact that some people in town resented them—no police officer in the world is popular with everybody; it's a job that makes enemies, particularly of chronic kickers and people who think they are privileged to do exactly as they choose, anywhere, anytime. Bill's only object could have been to stir up controversy. He has done this before, but we don't remember when he has done it so weakly. It was a form of sensationalism and destructive journalism entirely unworthy of Bill's talents.

As for Bill's latest crusade against merchants parking near their places of business on Dolores street, we have only this to say: we freely concede it is an evil, but where else can these merchants park without walking blocks to their businesses? We see only one solution for it:

Make Dolores a one-way street, with limited parking on one side only.

We believe this can be done. We think it would greatly relieve the present congestion. We'll go further and predict that it will be done, sooner or later, after all other methods have failed.

Many Familiar Faces, Some New Ones in Festival This Year

What Aladdin's lamp was to the genii, what the catalytic agent is to a difficult chemical experiment, so are the Bach Festival artists to the grand, exultant total of music to be sung, played, appreciated, and loved around and about Carmel from July 21 to 27. Many familiar faces will be recognized among the performers, and just as many new ones, for music is indeed a common denominator, reducing different ages, backgrounds, talents, and attitudes of life to one single element, the desire to do the highest justice to the greatest of the arts.

An old friend to Bach Festival audiences is ALICE MOCK, whose fine coloratura soprano has been heard on the air, in motion pictures, and in concert. A personal friend of Conductor Usigli, Miss Mock will for the fifth time take part in the B Minor Mass.

A recent graduate from the prodigy class is 18-year-old MIRIAM SOLOVIEFF, violin soloist, well-known to European concert-goers as well as Town Hall and Hollywood Bowl audiences. Miss Solovieff is a Juilliard graduate, and a student of Louis Persinger, also the teacher of Yehudi Menuhin.

Tenor JULIAN LIEBAN is the possessor of law degrees from the Sorbonne and Heidelberg as well as a distinguished record on the concert and operatic stage. Besides concerts for the Bach Society of Pasadena, Mr. Lieban has recently been heard in performances of "The Marriage of Figaro", "Mignon", and "Martha".

Another artist fresh from performances with the Pasadena Bach Society is JUNE STEVENS, whose mezzo-contralto voice will be heard in the delightful Byrd madrigals. Miss Stevens was a finalist in Time's Music Fiesta Contest for Singers.

VIRGINIA SHORT, assistant conductor of the Fiesta, studied her chosen profession in pre-1939 Salzburg. She teaches orchestra, string work, and harmony at the College of the Pacific.

Bass STEN ENGLUND brings to the Festival a Scandinavian heritage, a rich background of choral, operatic and motion picture work. He won the $1000 prize awarded by the Allied Arts of Southern California, in competition with 400 singers. Recently he sang in the New Year's Day performance of "The Messiah" in the Salt Lake City Tabernacle.

One of the parts in the Four-Piano Concerto will be ably performed by ELEANOR SAYRE, graduate of the University of Washington music department, and student of Stojonski, Schmitz, and Cortot.

Well-known to peninsula music-lovers is CHARLES FULKERSON, assistant director to Gastone Usigli, and another performer in the Four-Piano Concerto. Mr. Fulkerson distinguished himself in the music department of San Jose State College.

ARLINE JOANNE GOLDEN, solo flutist in the Brandenburg Concerto, is a member of the Pacific Music Society of San Francisco, and a student of Henry Woempner of the San Francisco Symphony.

A favorite Hollywood Bowl artist is GENEVIEVE WILEY, who has sung mezzo-soprano arias in the southern amphitheater under direction of Molinari and Richard Lert. Her teachers were Henschel, Arthur Alexander, and Ernst Wolf.

A native Californian is pianist MARCUS GORDON, who received his early training in San Francisco before studying at Juilliard and with Josef Lehvinne. Familiar through his series of radio programs, Mr. Gordon is also well-known for Town Hall concerts, and performances throughout this country and Canada.

We are again indebted to Alfred Frankenstein, who has become an integral part of the Festival for his scholarly but comprehensive lectures on the Composers and their music. Mr. Frankenstein, who is a distinguished critic and member of the San Francisco Chronicle staff, recently won high honors in a national contest based on an essay about recorded music.

Marcella Howard is a newcomer to the Festival who is now making her home in Carmel. Her luscious soprano voice has been heard on Broadway and in some of New York's finest churches. More recently she has been coaching with John Burr and a short time ago gave a highly successful concert at Fort Ord.

One of the popular "repeat" artists this season is Tenor RUSSELL HORTON, whose performance in last year's Festival was followed by a nationwide concert tour and participation in the coast-to-coast broadcast of Dubois' "Seven Last Words of Christ" on Good Friday.

Rarely heard as a solo instrument is the oboe, so it is a pleasure looking forward to the performance next week of MERRILL REMINGTON, veteran of numerous appearances with the Portland Symphony, San Francisco Symphony and Opera, and the National Broadcasting Company Orchestras.

ROSS WORSLEY is a basso cantante of rare ability, but he has taken a fling at banking and interior decorating, too. His training included studies at Occidental College, and lessons with Arthur Alexander and Richard Lert. The music of Bach especially attracts Mr. Worsley, for he has frequently performed as soloist for the Pasadena Bach Society.

Another Pasadena Bach Society musician is RALPH LINSLEY, pianist. Mr. Linsley is an outstanding accompanist as well as solo performer, and as such has toured the country, and has worked at length with the Richard Lert versions of operas, and with the Pasadena Festival Chorus.

First violist with Leopold Stokowski's All American Youth Orchestra is JULES SAIKIN, who is also head of the viola departments at Indiana and Butler Universities. He is a member of four string quartet organizations, and in his spare time indulges in photography and horseback riding.

RUTH TERRY KOECHIG has sung in previous Bach Festivals, so her limpid contralto will be familiar to Carmel audiences. She is well-known throughout the Southwest as a singer of difficult operatic roles, and has reached a larger audience via the airlanes. Miss Koechig has been a "regular" in the Pasadena Music Festivals, under direction of Richard Lert.

Concertmaster of the Seventh Bach Festival is lovely DORIS BALLARD, also a welcome familiar figure in Carmel. She was an Albert Spalding scholar at Juilliard, and since her student days Miss Ballard has added her talent to several chamber music groups, notably the Carnegie Chamber Music Hall concerts.

ELENA GUIROLA HITCHCOCK will play one part in the Four-Piano Concerto of Bach, and

Third Army Corps Staff Arrives at Jolon July 21st

Maneuvers to be Directed By Officers on the Spot In Novel Office Trailers

Major General Walter K. Wilson, commanding officer of the III Army Corps, Presidio of Monterey, and his staff, are scheduled to arrive once more at the Hunter Liggett Reservation on Monday. For the five-day follow-up maneuvers, which are to be a dress rehearsal for the August war problems at Fort Lewis.

The 7th Division, under Major Joseph W. Stilwell will be ranged against the 19th Engineers—which are troops under Fourth Army control stationed at Fort Ord.

The III Army Corps officers from the Presidio will again act as umpires. Their famous office trailers being made military use of a second time, although these improvised army vehicles proved themselves the first trip to Jolon.

Lieut. General J. L. De Witt mentioned these trailers designed by Col. Wilson and assembled out of junked army trucks and ambulances very enthusiastically in his critique to the War Department on the Fort Ord versus Fort Lewis maneuvers. This officer from San Francisco, who is head of our Pacific Coast Fourth army, suggested that all commanding officers look into these trailers with a view to adopting them. Because of their unique facility of combining an officers' field sleeping quarters and an administrative office on wheels. Some trailers have as many as four bunks.

Colonel Daly's bagpiper McPoil is going to blow them up at the Hearst Ranch House, as he did before—reveille and chow. And he will play during evening mess, too. This Scotch bagpipe music there in the lea of the old adobe San Antonio Mission, among the tawny California hills studded with ancient live oaks, adds a very nice touch to army headquarters.

The III Army Corps outfit at the Presidio is expanding. Work there is already underway on a $435,732 project for a new wing of the administrative building recently built and housing accommodations for commissioned personnel.

HOT SHAVING WATER ON MANEUVERS JUST MEANS TAPPING TRUCK RADIATOR

Like the Englishman who always dresses for dinner in the jungle, one Fort Ord private not only shaved during maneuvers down there in the Jolon wilderness, but magically managed to produce hot water for this daily facial chore.

Of course this soldier — Private Jan De Conter, of Headquarters Co. of the 7th Quartermaster Corps, did have to start the army truck motor before he could get the hot water out of the radiator.

New Calif. Camp 33,000 Troops Armored Unit

Southern California is going to get one of the three enormous new camps now being planned at a cost of $22,800,000 each. Altogether they will house some 70,000 troops here on the Pacific coast.

The Santa Maria-Lompoc area is being investigated by army engineers for the new California camp which will comprise a triangular division—like the 7th—and an armored division, the first of its kind to be established on the coast—about 33,000 troops. It will be a self-contained unit, with hospital, fire station, chapel, post office, theater, service club, administrative buildings, signal corps, ordnance facilities, bakeries, ice-making plants, laundry and various repair shops.

Medford, Oregon and midwestern Oregon are the other localities under consideration for the two other vast Pacific coast camps.

Just the other day Camp Roberts, the west's great replacement center near San Miguel — once known as Nacimiento — has reached the $15,010,930 mark. Here 26,000 selectees get their first 13 weeks of army training.

Recently when 2670 trainees were arriving, 955 boys just graduated were being transferred to Camp San Luis Obispo—for duty with the 40th Division. Oriignally this outfit was made up of California and Utah Guardsmen. Now it has men from about every state in the union.

The 40th Division has been brought near to war strength by means of replacements from Camp Roberts, Camp Callan, Camp Wolters, Texas, of 16,565 men and 778 officers. It now lacks 1300 men to be of full war-time strength.

GOOD CONDUCT MEDALS TO BE USED IN ARMY FOR THE FIRST TIME

No one seems to know a thing about the military innovation coming up. Anyway it's in the wind that for the first time the United States army is going to give Good Conduct Medals. This pronunciamento incidentally, is in no way lined up with yoo-hooing incidents.

He-Man Pet Given Infantry Officer

A bobcat was given to Lt. Adams the other day by a very close friend. This wild animal is feeling at home at Main Garrison, has his own barracks, a specially built cage. He weighs about 40 pounds and is the very virile mascot of Co. D, 53rd Infantry. Bobcats are choosey about their diet. The 7th Division one lives on blood and milk.

To Stay or Not to Stay in Army Draftee Dilemma--An Uncertainty Worrying Civilians, Not Soldiers

Soldiers — yearling soldiers — have been sure for a long, long time they would be staying on in the army. The majority of the men are quite reconciled. Its a resignation untouched with bitterness. Naturally, they would rather be going back to their girls and jobs —or jobs and girls. But they are fatalists these 1941 boys, who have snapped so quickly and wholeheartedly into the routine of being soldiers.

Ever since they first sensed the chalk on the wall about draftees being kept in the army more than the specified year they have accepted the odds against them. No complaining nor whining — but plenty of jokes.

It suits many of them perfectly —the adventurous ones, men with no definite job to go back to, and those who find they really are cut out for army life. Others it does not suit so well—the idea of staying on in uniform.

One Fort Ord soldier—an enlistee—said he would be tickled to death to stay on longer than one year — maybe six months, though he was not prepared to enlist for another three-year stretch. Said he wasn't ready yet to settle down permanently to the dull routine of the old sedentary job he had left—and which is waiting for him. If the army does not keep him on, he will board a tramp steamer and go around the Horn. Lots and lots of Ord men have this sort of thing in the back of their minds. They want to see the world before it's too late and they are tied down to business and domestic life for good. And they feel the army may give them this chance—even though it involves the risk of near war-time days.

Statistics may always be gathered to prove any point which you want to prove. That's the way with statistics in general and with this coming question about selectees wanting "in" or "out" of Uncle Sam's army.

The main thing is draftees will take the change to the extended service in their stride—have already showed their intention to do so—if the War Department feels it needs them long in this national emergency. Only civilians are benevolently stewed up and making it into a huge controversial issue on behalf of soldiers already reconciled for many months to more than a year in the army.

Helen Coolidge Poems View Nature Through Amethyst Atmosphere

A charming little volume of poems by Helen Coolidge, called "With Unclipped Wings" has just been published by The Pine Cone Press. Through an "atmosphere of amethyst" the changing nuances of life and nature are viewed and recorded by a sensitive observer. Sometimes just a suggestion of the full beauty is given, often just a few strokes, as sketch for the completed picture; but from this light touch the reader may supply what the poet has withheld. Nothing is over-stated or laboured.

When a poem deals with the iridescence of life, with kings and moonlight, glints and gleams, flowers and breath, it is difficult to convey the particular essence of the work in a review. The delicacy is lost in the rougher medium of prose. These little lyrics have somewhat the quality of miniatures; they are outlined in "tones as delicate as mist." They have been drawn by a brush dipped in rose-petals and mother-of-pearl.

Although with "Unclipped Wings" could not be called vigorous poetry, it has its place among sensitive and fagile things. In a garden it is not necessary for all the flowers to be tiger-lilies and scarlet dahlias.

DORA HAGEMEYER.

hard to get out. Army doctors take no chances.

Smell of Fall in the Air. At least hearing army gossip about football prelim stuff under Coach Gustafson seems to hurry summer along.

His Way of Putting It. Because of all the dust, dirt, burrs and foxtails at Jolon, one private shaved his head. Said he found it easier. It also made his rather extreme baldness much less noticeable.

Suit Situation. Civilian males just over the draft age or exempted—are being especially nice to Ord privates. They lend them suits—new ones, too—so they can shed uniforms and show up at parties where officers might appear as guests, too.

Just as Precious. On maneuvers no one thought of pulling out a canteen any more than he would a package of cigarets.

Granddaddy's Undies. The Army is having thousands of good, old-fashioned ankle-length undies manufactured for draftees to keep snug in and weather the coming winter.

It costs Money. Private Albert Kapp paid $12.42 to have 26 rolls of films developed which he took down at Jolon—208 shots.

Army a Great Leveller. Paul Jones, a former Pasadena Community Playhouse actor, then of proud and haughty mien, is a private at Fort Ord. He feels he has adjusted himself very quickly to the army. Is willing to take orders—even hitch-hikes to Carmel.

And Still They Come. More and more nurses are being taken on at the Fort Ord Hospital. Eighteen new ones arrived recently.

Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck Meet John Doe

SUNDAY, MONDAY and TUESDAY—

The Carmel Theater will show Frank Capra's latest success, MEET JOHN DOE, starring Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck.

Cooper plays the average American who has lost his means of livelihood and who, in spite of amambition, becomes classified as an migrant. In playing this role of an average man, temporarily down on his luck, Cooper adds another portrait to the gallery of "beloved vagabonds" so dear to the heart of Americans. The problem of the man displaced from ordinary economic status, whose ideas, if not radical, are at least different from the rank and file, is as old as history and as new as tomorrow's newspaper—and just as challenging and dramatic.

Supporting Gary Cooper and Barbara Stanwyck are Edward Arnold, Walter Brennan, James Gleason and Spring Byington.

FRIDAY and SATURDAY, we find Loretta Young using a woman's wiles to tame the wildest west in "The Lady from Cheyenne" with Robert Preston and Edward Arnold in the co-starring roles.

Elephant Boy Follows That Hamilton Woman

"That Hamilton Woman" ends its record-breaking run in Carmel this Saturday night with a matinee Saturday afternoon. This Peninsula premiere of a great picture is making box office history at the Playhouse.

"That Hamilton Woman" will be followed at Kuster's theater by "Elephant Boy," coming back to Carmel for the seventh time in the past three years. Making its exclusive appearance on the Peninsula at The Playhouse, "Elephant Boy" has set an attendance record which will probably never be equalled on the peninsula.

This beautiful story of Kipling is made vital and alive by the remarkably natural acting of Sabu, the Indian boy who was seen last week in "The Thief of Bagdad." His leading role in "Elephant Boy" marked his introduction to the screen and brought him the admiration and love of thousands upon thousands of men, women and children who have seen the film.

"Elephant Boy" will be shown at The Playhouse Sunday through Wednesday, with matinees Sunday and Wednesday.

Bach and Temperament

By HARRY PARTCH

In kneeling before the tonal benedictions provided by a Bach festival we are apt to forget that the blessings of this music so freely called "immortal" are not unmixed.

Johann Sebastian Bach casts two distinct shadows upon the historic screen of musical culture. One aspect orientates the tones he used—his system. The second delineates his music.

A musician said to me recently: "Why must you insist on music being a 'system'? Why not accept it as a God-given fact!" It may be a shock to some musicians, but our present "system" was not handed out of the clouds of Mount Sinai. It was born in the throes of labor and pain.

From the time of Gregorian chant it was inevitable that a Bach would one day appear. Music was veering away from the linear, becoming harmonic, and attaining a status independent of poetry and the dance. Consequently, instruments with harmonic versatility—keyboard instruments—became the intellect of the new music.

To musicians of ancient Greece and Medieval times, the problem of dividing the octave into arbitrary parts was only a mathematical teaser. They conceived of scales in true acoustical relationships, as the human ear demands, in simple ratios to one fundamental.

The new music, however, demanded that any one of several tones of a keyboard be used as a fundamental. Tones were therefore deliberately falsified, or compromised—only a few at first; later, all. And the ancient idea of simple ratios was junked.

The modern musician doesn't talk in plain terms, such as the painter's red, purple, blue, but in a cant—an idiom peculiar to the genus musician. He talks of A flat, B sharp, tonic, mediant, dominant. And this strange language developed with and largely because of the above-described falsifications.

In meantone temperament, used before Bach's time, 16 keys (major and minor) were fairly good, but the other eight were so bad that musicians compared them with the "howling of wolves." To render all keys equally bad, so that there would be no contract, seemed the only solution. Having fallen into a sea of compromise it was the most natural thing in the world for musical Europe to sink.

To Bach's patternistic intellectuality the solution was a godsend. He could now put one of his themes through a dozen keys in a dozen variations and involutions—double-timed, quadruple-timed, half-timed, inverted, retrogressed—and it would still be the exact interval pattern of the original.

Thus have 12 equal tones become Mosaic law, and the "Well-Tempered Clavichord" the Arc of the Covenant.

The human ear is capable of a keen appreciation and classification of intervals, if it is given half a chance. Teachers frequently deplore the lack of "ear" in their pupils, but what strange judges they are, since their own "ears" have had a life-time of training in falsity.

An examination of Bach's second shadow reveals the whole trend of music since Gregorian chant as a tangent to the main historic stream. The ancient Greek and Chinese conception—as old as history—that music is poetry, has deteriorated until now, even when words are used, they are merely a vehicle for tones. The voice is just another violin, or another 'cello.

With this metamorphosis was the ancient conception lost? By no means. It was obscured, left to folk peoples—sailors, soldiers, gypsies. But it flowed on in a broad deep stream, in the troubadours of Prevence, the meistersingers of Nuremberg, the Japanese Noh and Kabuki, the recitative of Peri and Monteverdi (not the vocal tour de force of present-day recitative), the folk music of England and our own Southern mountains, the pure Negro spiritual (not "symphonized"), and a minor degree in both Wagner and Debussy.

The music of the symphony, the chorale, the oratorio, in which those contributing must submerge their identities to the will of a leader, is an art of mass-massed tones, massed instruments, massed voices, and hearers are transported by sheer mass and volume.

The music of the historic concept involves the greatest economy of materials, and hearers are transported not by mass, but subtlety. The one is the true music of autocracy. The other is the true music of the individual.

In this sense, and also as one of the props of our tonal priests, Bach, however legitimate, is potentially as great a limiting influence as the 12 equal tones he helped to perpetuate.

Markham Johnston to Join Naval Air Force

Markham Johnston just beat the draft by passing his physical examination for both army and the army and naval air force and last week received notice to report for duty Aug. 15 at the Oakland Naval Air Base. Markham, who is the son of Mrs. Gladys Johnston, graduated from Salinas Junior College in June where he had taken C. A. A. training for the last six months. It will be either Pensacola or Corpus Cristi for him when he completes his work in Oakland.

Declaration Day July 22

By BERNARD ROWNTREE

It is up to the people of Carmel. On Tuesday, July 22, the people of Carmel will have the opportunity to express their will regarding four points, which are:

1. To build police quarters and jail.
2. To provide a site for Red Cross building.
3. To buy land for a future City Hall.
4. Five-year program for improving Carmel streets.

Others are explaining the advantages of the four points. I wish to stress the dangers that will or may arise if the four-point plan is not approved by the voters on July 22.

1. We have not experienced real crime in Carmel but no one knows when there will be rape, assault, holdup and other crimes involving danger to life. We do not know how long it will be before we may have to let drunken men roam and drive on our streets if we do not have a place in which to confine them. No one knows when the disadvantages under which our police department is working may have serious effect on some innocent citizen. A jail and adequate police quarters will greatly improve the efficiency of our police force.

2. Our Red Cross is greatly handicapped by insufficient room. The importance of our Red Cross is growing every year. It should have a building and no doubt it can raise the money for such a building but it will be more difficult to raise enough money to buy land. The City Council has gone on record as favoring the city providing a site for the Red Cross building if the bond issue is approved by the citizens of Carmel. If the election on July 22 is not carried, no one knows when the Red Cross will have enough money to buy land and erect a building. If the site is provided, this will be an added impetus towards the money being contributed for the building.

3. For many years Carmel has talked about and investigated many sites for a City Hall. Debating the question of the location of a site has wasted much time. The question of price has wasted more time. As the years have gone by, one site after another has been acquired by private interests until the choice of a site is narrowing down to a point where the city may be forced to take what it does not want unless the voters approve the property on which the city has an option.

4. Carmel cannot raise any more money by general taxation except as property values increase slightly year by year. The cost of operating all city departments has reached the point where improvements of any of the streets cannot be done by money from the general fund.

The people of Carmel as a whole use all the streets of Carmel and the people of Carmel as a whole should pay for improving all the streets of Carmel in the order of importance to all the people of Carmel.

From now on, the streets of Carmel will not be improved by grading and oiling, unless the people of Carmel pay for it. The people who live in any one block only use that street a small amount in proportion to its total use by all the people and the people in that one block will not pay the entire cost of grading and oiling which should be paid by all the people of Carmel.

If the special tax for street improvements is not approved by the voters on July 22, no more improvement work will be done until the people are willing to approve a street tax at a future election.

Anyone and everyone not supporting or actively opposing these four points will be individually responsible for the dire results that may occur if the election fails to carry.

Many Familiar Faces, Some New Ones in Festival This Year

also the Mozart D Minor Concerto. Miss Hitchcock, still in her early twenties, has studied with Warren Allen of Stanford, and Jacobsen, and journeyed to Europe for special work with Egon Petri and the Schnabels.

No introduction is needed in mentioning RACHEL MORTON, for Carmel has come to look on this charming soprano as its own. Mrs. Morton's career has included opera and concerts abroad, especially in England and the Scandinavian countries, where she specialized in Wagnerian roles. She is at present teaching in Carmel, and is soloist in the First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Another familiar Carmelite is NOEL SULLIVAN, whose fine bass has brought new meaning to well-loved music in past Festivals. Mr. Sullivan is a distinguished figure in the local musical and artistic world, in the California and national scenes.

Carmel's third contribution to its midsummer musicale is JOHN BURR, singing Bach for the second season since he came to settle and teach on the Peninsula. Mr. Burr has studied and sung opera abroad, and lately with the San Francisco Opera Company. His forte is religious music, a perfect medium for his basso cantante.

These, then, are the artists who are giving generously and joyously of their precious talent to make the Bach Festival of 1941 a worthy successor to those which have gone before, and an incentive for those yet to come.

—MURIEL H. SIMPSON.

Anniversary Celebrated—

At 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon members of the American Red Cross in the Carmel Valley held an outdoor party in celebration of their surgical dressing center. Officiating at the exercises were Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Taubles, Mrs. Sydney Trevvett, Richard Gordon of the Red Cross at Fort Ord, and Mrs. Walsh. Burges Are Sold on Their Ranch Life

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Burge came into town last week to tell about their ranch in Shasta county, the Land of Plenty, and they did some heavy bragging about how they raise all the food set on their table and if they don't want to raise it, they just pluck a salmon out of their river or shoot a pheasant or two in the nearby woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Burge and their young son left Carmel eight months ago to join the back to earth movement and are now convinced that it beats all—except that they miss their old friends here. Burge, before his departure, was a city councilman and commissioner of streets in Carmel.

Dr. Leo Wurzmann Dies In San Francisco

Funeral services were held Friday morning in San Francisco for Dr. Leo Wurzmann, father of Miss Elizabeth Wurzmann and Fritz Wurzmann of Carmel. Dr. Wurzmann, a former Carmel resident, was a retired attorney.

Memories

It was like old times—that long, dark winter just past, full of so many rains which caused our streets to be flooded time after time, only this time it was a leak in a section of the California Water Company's main line running across Devendorf Plaza which caused the small flood on Ocean avenue last week. It's the soft adobe dirt which ate through the heavy pipe of this main line from San Clemente Dam which caused all the trouble that kept the company repair crew busy for so many days first on one break and then another.

ALL SAINTS CHURCH

Next Sunday at 11 a. m., the Service of Morning Prayer with sermon message by Chaplain Henry T. Praed of the 147th Field Arillery, Fort Ord. Chaplain Praed is the Rector of Trinity Church at Pierre, South Dakota.

This Sunday, the opening Sunday of the Bach Festival Week, is emphasized in the musical part of the 11 a. m. service at which Max Hagemeyer will be the cello soloist, with organ obligato by Alice Lee Keith at the organ. The offertory will be Bach's "Adagio from the Toccato in C Major" for organ.

Organ numbers will include Bach's Sonatina ,"God's Time Is Best"; Chorales, "Hark a Voice Saith"; "All Are Mortal"; "Hail to Thee My Jesus Holy" and the Choral Vorspiel "My Heart Is Filled With Longing."

The 8 a. m. Sunday service is discontinued during the month of July.

THE MISSION RANCH CLUB

Opportunity to Serve Community Comes on July 22

enth street, going East, ends at Junipero, so there will be no cross-traffic.

The site is just one block off Ocean Avenue, yet so located that it will spread street parking over a wider area, instead of adding to down-town parking congestion.

THE SURROUNDINGS ARE UNATTRACTIVE

There is something to this objection. The city yard, across Mission street, and the Murphy lumber yard, across Seventh, are not beautiful. The city yard's appearance, however, is under city control, and the Murphy property is becoming too valuable for continued use as a lumber yard. Its assessed value will go up further, if the proposed site is approved for the Civic Center. It is just about certain that the Murphy property will no longer be used as a lumber yard by the time the city gets around to building its city hall.

RUMOR SAYS SITE WAS REJECTED FOR POST OFFICE, BECAUSE IT LIES LOW

This is untrue. The site never was considered for the post office and it lies high, with lovely trees. Go and see for yourself. The only sites ever submitted for the post office were the Carl Burrows, Robert Leidig and M. J. Murphy properties. The Murphy property is lower than the Elizabeth White site.

THE PRICE IS TOO HIGH

Per square foot it is the lowest priced centrally located property available; far less expensive than several sites that have been discussed. After careful analysis of value indicators, the Council decided the price was fair.

It is the lowest price at which the property ever has been offered, since it was acquired by its present owner, $500 less than the price at which it was offered to the city as a city hall site, in 1939. Since 1939 business property values generally have increased substantially.

In 1933, at the bottom of the depression, the Murphy property, across Seventh street, was offered as a city hall site on a square foot basis that would have made the proposed site then worth, on a comparable basis $14,720—22 per cent more than the present asking price. We are now in boom times.

Recently the city was offered two INSIDE 40-foot lots, immediately across the street from the proposed site, for $5,000. The proposed site includes two far more valuable corners, and the equivalent in area of 5¾ 40-foot lots.

The price is considered reasonable, from every angle.

WILL TAXES GO UP IF THE BONDS PASS?

Yes, just 16 cents per year on each $1000 of actual property value; less than a cent and a half per month.

If the bonds fail and the jail is built out of current taxes, though raising the property assessment basis from 40 per cent to 50 per cent, taxes will go up far more, and they almost certainly will STAY up.

If you are humane, and want to take Carmel prisoners out of horrible conditions in the Monterey jail, you will vote for the bonds. If you pinch pennies and want, at all costs, to escape higher taxes, you will vote for the bonds.

Will it be a Good Thing to Provide Space for a Red Cross Social Service Building if the Bonds Are Approved?—

The Red Cross is Carmel's only social service relief agency. It looks after helpless old people, provides milk for needy children, cares for needy sick, runs a Used Clothes Depot, provided our only ambulance, offers first aid and disaster relief: this in addition to its work for the army and war relief.

It greatly needs a permanent home, and just as the United States Government gives the American Red Cross money and offices in all army camps, for its national service, it is quite fitting that Carmel should recognize Carmel Red Cross local service by providing land for its Social Service Building in its Civic Center.

The Social Service Building, it should be understood, is to be built out of funds from a private trust fund, established to provide the Red Cross with a permanent home.

There is ample land, in the proposed Civic Center site for the Police Station-Jail, a future City Hall and the proposed Social Service Building. This humane provision can be made without extra cost to the taxpayers.

WHO IS FOR THE BOND ISSUE?

All who are humane; all who look forward to development of Carmel as America's loveliest community of homes; all who want taxes kept low.

WHO IS AGAINST THE BOND ISSUE?

Only those with personal axes to grind, or people not fully informed. Some people who mistakenly think defeating the bonds will keep taxes low. When they realize that defeat of the bonds may result in permanent raising of the property assessment level from 40 per cent to 50 per cent, they may also vote "yes."

DUNGEON DIRE

Carmel, Calif.,
July 10, 1941.

Dear Neighbors,

I've just been to jail (where Carmel's prisoners are kept, in Monterey). Would that every Carmelite might go, too. Your verdict would be much like mine. "If this were a dog pound, I would vote for a new one. No mutt of mine shall ever be lodged in such a dungeon," Nowhere outside of Russia have I seen the likes of it. Yet this is where Carmel detains its first offender youth over 16 years of age. And women, too. It is a disgrace. The date carved on the granite wall is—1854. The place should be preserved as a relic of barbarous days. Have we learned nothing about prison reform in nearly a century? Evidently not! That jail in Monterey does not represent the enlightenment of either community. In any case, people who have heard of Emily Post don't dump their social garbage in their neighbor's backyards. I'm for a new jail of our own; one that's fit for a preacher. I may need it some day.

Carmelancholy yours,
James E. Crowther, D.D.

LUCKY FALL—

Paul E. Smith, an employee of the Stahl Motor company, suffered minor injuries last Tuesday when the three-wheel motorcycle which he was driving went over the center line on the Carmel Hill and collided head-on with an automobile driven by Lt. V. G. Conley of Carmel. Smith was thrown from his motorcycle onto the dirt shoulder of the road, thus escaping serious injuries.

New and improved de luxe lounge and dining car accommodations have been added to Southern Pacific's streamlined "Larks", according to Frank E. Weeks, local agent for the company.

Known as a "triplex unit" and designed by Southern Pacific, the new equipment consists of a lounge car, diner and kitchen car uniquely constructed to create the effect of being one continuous room. The illusion is heightened, it was stated, by skillful blending of interior decorations and arrangement of fluorescent lighting throughout the cars.

Dr. Margaret Levick.

Marian Adams was first winner of a painting, and chose one of Paul Doughertys marine pictures. Among the other winners were: Mrs. James Smith, who took home a painting by Armin Hansen; Mrs. Margaret Ingalls, who chose a John O'Shea; Frederick Blancher, who selected a painting by Arthur Hill Gilbert! Willard Wheeler, who chose a Paul Whitman.

Lee Tevis took two etchings by Armin Hansen; Joseph Bianca, a painting by William Ritschel; Keith Evans, a William Watts. Noel Sullivan won several, among which was a painting by Henrietta Shore. Mrs. Sidney Fish chose a pastel by Florence Lockwood; Mrs. Robert Stanton, a Gene McComas and a decoration by Paul Mays; Miss Anne Martin, a William Watts, and Mrs. A. L. Winslow a figurine by Mrs. William Hargraves.

Camilla Daniels, Mrs. Mabel Sampson, Peter Mawdsley and Robert Norton were some of the old-time Carmelites who managed to draw lucky numbers. The entire 100 works of art were selected in person or by proxy.

The numbers were drawn by attractive Anne Whitman, and afterward a buffet supper was served in the water color gallery. Untiring bartenders were Sam Colburn and Royden Martin. Janie Otto (Mrs. Clay Otto) kept pretty well hidden in the kitchen, preparing the delicious refreshments. She was ably assisted by Marjorie Warren, Betty and Virginia Wheeler, Miss Sophie Burgdorff and Miss Whalen. Thanks are due the houseboys of Paul Dougherty and Dr. Margaret Levick, who offered their services of their own free will.

OUR COVER

Profiles of Johann Sebastian Bach seem to be a rarity. The one on our cover this week is Mary Burr's imaginative conception based on a composite of numerous pictures of the composer she has studied.

Charming, talented Mary Carruthers Burr was born 19 years ago in Astoria, Ore., began studying art and dancing at nine, became a ballerina of the San Francisco Opera under William Christensen at 15, prima ballerina three years later, when she met and married John Burr. Coming to Carmel, she studied sculpture under Finn Frolich, and is at present working on two commissioned busts. For the past five months she has been social editor of The Pine Cone and has contributed a number of drawings and woodcuts to the paper. Her husband, John Burr, singer and teacher, has been The Pine Cone's music editor for over a year.

The celebrated American concert pianist, Dalies Frantz, was in Carmel this week as a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Pearson. Frantz has a double professional life. He is also a motion picture actor and was enroute from San Francisco to Hollywood when he stopped over here.

A Place to Enjoy Yourself

If you like swimming and tennis, fencing and riding, there is no more delightful place hereabouts than the Mission Ranch. The huge eucalyptus trees, the view of the ocean and river, the fine pool make it a charming spot to visit. The restaurant is housed in a remodeled old ranch house and the food is delectable. There's an excellent bar. You'll like the horses, to suit all kinds of riders. Barbara Winslow is tennis professional and appointments can be made with her by calling the ranch.

Due to lack of space in this issue, Lee Crowe's column, "The Crowe's Nest" is held over until next week.—(Ed.)

To the Editor

Sir:

Regarding Mr. Richard Masten's diatribe against your interesting newspaper last week, I am reminded of what Montaigne wrote about the king "who by handfuls pulled his hair off his head for sorrow. Does the man think that baldness is a remedy for grief? Who has not seen peevish gamesters chew and swallow the cards and swallow the dice for revenge for the loss of their money? Xerxes whipped the sea, wrote a challenge to Mount Athos; Cyrus employed a whole army to revenge himself of the river Gyndas, for the fright it put him into in passing over it. . . . There are vices that always go together, but in truth such actions as these have in them more of presumption than of wit".

In hoce,
T. MAGUIRE.
